THE POLITICAL ECONOMY OF HAZARDS AND DISASTERS
SOCIETY FOR ECONOMIC ANTHROPOLOGY (SEA) MONOGRAPHS

Dolores Koenig, American University
General Editor, Society for Economic Anthropology

Monographs for the Society for Economic Anthropology contain original essays that explore the connections between economics and social life. Each year’s volume focuses on a different theme in economic anthropology. Earlier volumes were published with the University Press of America, Inc. (#1–15, 17), Rowman & Littlefield Publishers, Inc. (#16). The monographs are now published jointly by AltaMira Press and the Society for Economic Anthropology (http://sea.org.ohio-state.edu).

Acknowledgments

As hosts of the 2007 Society for Economic Anthropology conference “The Political Economy of Hazards and Disasters” and as editors of this volume, we would like to acknowledge several people who made the conference and this volume a success. First, we would like to thank all those who managed to brave the weather “events” across North America that made travel a challenge. That so many managed to attend the meeting and arrive with intellect and humor intact is an indication of the interest in how it is that societies and cultures deal with the political and economic aspects of extreme events. The planning of the event was greatly aided by Sofia Ivanova and Pamela Canady, who ensured that the details were addressed. We also want to recognize Courtney Hill, Phet Keomanyvanh, Amy Morse, and Tess Holder, who greeted attendees with warm smiles and ensured we all knew where we needed to be at our appointed times. A special thanks to the general series editor Dolores Koenig, who has provided valuable, gentle, and insistent guidance in the drafting of this volume. Three anonymous reviewers provided insightful critique and suggestions for our editing. Kari MacLauchlin helped us out with excellent copyediting to prepare the volume for submission. Finally, we wish to acknowledge the support of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, College of Arts and Sciences and the Department of Anthropology, which provided us with the time and resources needed to plan and execute the conference as well as review and edit this volume. And thank you to Brent K. Marshall (1966–2008) for inspiration as a leader of a new generation of disaster researchers.
