Sara Miller McCune founded SAGE Publishing in 1965 to support the dissemination of usable knowledge and educate a global community. SAGE publishes more than 1000 journals and over 800 new books each year, spanning a wide range of subject areas. Our growing selection of library products includes archives, data, case studies and video. SAGE remains majority owned by our founder and after her lifetime will become owned by a charitable trust that secures the company’s continued independence.
Contents

List of Figures and Tables \hspace{1cm} ix
Notes on Editors and Contributors \hspace{1cm} xi

1 Introduction \hspace{1cm} 1
Olga Kravets, Pauline Maclaran, Steven Miles and Alladi Venkatesh

PART I SOCIOLOGY OF CONSUMPTION \hspace{1cm} 11

2 The Emergence of Contemporary Consumer Culture \hspace{1cm} 13
Stephen Miles

3 The Systems of Provision Approach to Understanding Consumption \hspace{1cm} 27
Ben Fine, Kate Bayliss and Mary Robertson

4 The Making of the Consumer: Historical and Sociological Perspectives \hspace{1cm} 43
Marie-Emmanuelle Chessel and Sophie Dubuisson-Quellier

5 Consumption, Class and Taste \hspace{1cm} 61
Jessica Paddock

PART II GEOGRAPHIES OF CONSUMER CULTURE \hspace{1cm} 77

6 Debunking the Myths of Global Consumer Culture Literature \hspace{1cm} 79
Güliz Ger, Eminęğül Karababa, Alev Kuruoğlu, Meltem Türe, Tuba Üstüner and Baskın Yenicioğlu

7 Consumer Culture in Socialist Russia \hspace{1cm} 102
Olga Gurova

8 New Urbanism, Post-nationalism and Consumerist
Modernity in India \hspace{1cm} 124
Sanjay Srivastava

9 Consumption and Consumer Rights in Contemporary China \hspace{1cm} 143
Erika Kuever

10 Spaces of (Consumer) Resistance \hspace{1cm} 163
Vera Hoelscher and Andreas Chatzidakis
PART III  CONSUMER CULTURE STUDIES IN MARKETING

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter</th>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Authors</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>11</td>
<td>Consumer Culture Theory: A Front-row Seat at the Sidelines</td>
<td>Linda L. Price</td>
<td>179</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>12</td>
<td>Consumer Identity Projects</td>
<td>Gretchen Larsen and Maurice Patterson</td>
<td>194</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>13</td>
<td>Re-presenting, Reinvigorating and Reconciling: Gift-giving Research within and beyond the CCT Paradigm</td>
<td>Cele C. Otnes</td>
<td>214</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>14</td>
<td>Prosumption Tribes: How Consumers Collectively Rework Brands, Products, Services and Markets</td>
<td>Bernard Cova and Daniele Dalli</td>
<td>235</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>15</td>
<td>Contesting Understandings of Contestation: Rethinking Perspectives on Activism</td>
<td>Jay Handelman and Eileen Fischer</td>
<td>256</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PART IV  CONSUMER CULTURE IN MEDIA AND CULTURAL STUDIES

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter</th>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Authors</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>16</td>
<td>Consumer Culture and the Media</td>
<td>Mehita Iqani</td>
<td>275</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>17</td>
<td>Body Projects: Fashion, Aesthetic Modifications and Stylized Selves</td>
<td>Rossella Ghigi and Roberta Sassatelli</td>
<td>290</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>18</td>
<td>Who Takes the First Bite? A Critical Overview of Gender Representations in Food Advertising</td>
<td>Daniela Pirani, Benedetta Cappellini and Vicki Harman</td>
<td>316</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>19</td>
<td>Biopolitical Marketing and Technologies of Enclosure</td>
<td>Detlev Zwick and Janice Denegri-Knott</td>
<td>333</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

PART V  MATERIAL CULTURES OF CONSUMPTION

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Chapter</th>
<th>Title</th>
<th>Authors</th>
<th>Pages</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>20</td>
<td>The Materiality of Consumer Culture</td>
<td>Paul R. Mullins</td>
<td>351</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>21</td>
<td>Subject/Object Relations and Consumer Culture</td>
<td>Shona Bettany</td>
<td>365</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
CONTENTS

22 Another Consumer Culture Theory. An ANT Look at Consumption, or How ‘Market-things’ Help ‘Cultivate’ Consumers
Franck Cochoy and Alexandre Mallard
384

23 Objects: From Signs to Design
Benoît Heilbrunn
404

24 The War on Cash
Brett Scott
424

PART VI  THE POLITICS OF CONSUMER CULTURE
433

25 Consumer-Citizens: Markets, Marketing and the Making of ‘Choice’
Stefan Schwarzkopf
435

26 Are you Neoliberal Fit? The Politics of Consumption under Neoliberalism
Anisha Datta and Indranil Chakraborty
453

27 Sustainable Consumption, Consumer Culture and the Politics of a Megatrend
William Kilbourne, Pierre McDonagh and Andrea Prothero
478

28 Buying into the Nation: The Politics of Consumption and Nationalism
Eleftheria J. Lekakis
499

29 The Politics of Consumption
Alan Bradshaw
516

Index
530
This page intentionally left blank
List of Figures and Tables

FIGURES

8.1  DLF Advertisement, 1955
8.2  Advertisement for a gated residential enclave
25.1  Choice as a median-level concept

TABLES

14.1  On the road to prosumption in the academic literature
15.1  Empirical articles on consumer activism
18.1  Gender types in food advertising
27.1  Classification of megatrends
Notes on the Editors and Contributors

THE EDITORS

Olga Kravets is a Senior Lecturer at Royal Holloway of London. She holds a PhD in Economics from the University of Sydney, Australia. Her research interests lie with the historical, socio-cultural, and political aspects of consumer culture and markets in transitional societies. Her previous research examined classed consumption, materialities of marketing, and the intersection thereof with politics and state ideologies, and it has been published in the Journal of Marketing, Journal of Macromarketing, Journal of Marketing Management, Ephemera, Journal of Material Culture, Business History Review as well as edited books.

Pauline Maclaran is Professor of Marketing & Consumer Research at Royal Holloway University. Her research interests focus on cultural aspects of contemporary consumption, and she adopts a critical perspective to analyse the ideological assumptions that underpin many marketing activities, particularly in relation to gender issues. Her work also explores socio-spatial aspects of consumption, including the utopian dimensions of fantasy retail environments. She is a Co-editor in Chief of Marketing Theory, a journal welcoming alternative and critical perspectives in marketing and consumer research. Her most recent book, co-written with Professor Cele Otnes, is entitled, Royal Fever: The British Monarchy in Consumer Culture (California University Press).

Steven Miles is Professor in Sociology at Manchester Metropolitan University, UK, Head of the Research Centre for Applied Social Sciences and author of Retail and the Artifice of Social Change (Routledge, 2016). His particular interest is in the role of consumption in impacting on questions of identity, both at the individual level and that of the city. His key publications include Consumerism as a Way of Life (Sage, 1998), Youth Lifestyles in a Changing World (OUP, 2000) and Spaces for Consumption: Pleasure and Placelessness in the Post-Industrial City (Sage, 2010). Steven is currently Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Consumer Culture.

Alladi Venkatesh is Professor of Management and Informatics, and Associate Director, Center for Digital Transformation, University of California, Irvine, USA. He is also Honorary Professor at the Stockholm School of Economics. Professor Venkatesh’s publications have appeared in major journals, Management Science, Journal of Marketing, Journal of Consumer Research, Communications of the ACM, and others.
Marketing Theory, International Journal of Research in Marketing, Journal of Marketing Management and others. In 1998, he received the best paper award from the Journal of Consumer Research. He was the founding co-editor of Consumption Markets & Culture, which was founded in 1996.

THE CONTRIBUTORS

Kate Bayliss is a Research Associate at the School of Oriental and African Studies at the University of London. She has worked for many years on privatisation and public sector reform with particular reference to water and energy in developed and developing countries. Her research interests in this area include the impact of globalisation and financialisation on the provision of basic services.

Shona Bettany is a Professor of Marketing and Consumer Research at Liverpool John Moores University. Her research focuses on Consumer Culture, bringing a predominantly critical feminist material-semiotic lens to child, animal and sexuality studies. Her work is published in the Journal of Business Research, European Journal of Marketing, Journal of Marketing Management, Advances in Consumer Research and Consumption Markets & Culture. She has completed funded research for the Academy of Marketing, the ESRC and the Leverhulme Trust. When not writing she is a keen socialite in and around the bars in the Leeds LGBT zone of Lower Briggate, and often found walking her whippet in the local parks.

Alan Bradshaw teaches and learns at Royal Holloway, University of London and also at Stockholm University.

Benedetta Cappellini is a Senior Lecturer in Marketing at Royal Holloway, University of London. Her research interests are in food consumption, material culture and family consumption. She has published her research in several academic journals including Sociology, The Sociological Review, Consumption Markets & Culture, Journal of Business Research and Journal of Marketing Management. She has recently co-edited the text The Practice of the Meal: Food, Families and the Marketplace (Routledge).

Indranil Chakraborty is a doctoral candidate at the Faculty of Information and Media Studies, Western University, Canada. His thesis titled ‘Laborers of a Flat World’, examines the impact of globalisation on the work and life experiences of service workers in India’s Information sector. His research interests are in the areas of technology, work, labour, neoliberalism, political theory and global studies. Previously, he worked as a journalist in India for ten years.

Andreas Chatzidakis is a Senior Lecturer in Marketing at Royal Holloway University of London. His research focuses on the intersection of consumption with ethics and politics, including projects such as consumer-oriented activism in post-2008 Athens and the role of care and relationality in everyday consumption. His work also explores identity-based and spatial politics in contemporary consumer culture, drawing on disciplines such as human geography and psychoanalysis.

Marie-Emmanuelle Chessel is Historian and Research Professor at Sciences Po and CNRS (Centre for the Sociology of Organisations, Paris, France). Her work focuses in particular on Christian actors in the consumer world and in employer milieus, especially on the role of religion in women and men’s organisations. Marie-Emmanuelle Chessel has published Consommateurs engagés à la Belle Époque. La Ligue sociale d’acheteurs (Presses de Sciences Po, 2012) and Histoire de la consommation (La Découverte, 2012). In 2016 she also edited, with Denis Pelletier, Entreprises et religion, a special issue of the journal Entreprises et Histoire.

Franck Cochoy is Professor of Sociology at the University of Toulouse Jean Jaurès and a member of LISST-CNRS, France. He works in the field of economic sociology, with a focus on the human and technical mediations that frame the relationship between supply and demand. He has conducted several projects and case studies in such areas as the role of marketing, packaging, self-service, trade press and so on. His most recent articles in English have appeared in Consumption Markets & Culture, the Journal of Marketing Management and Marketing Theory.

Bernard Cova is Professor of Marketing at Kedge Business School. He acts as Visiting Professor at Bocconi University, Milan. A pioneer in the Consumer Tribes field since the early nineties, his work on this topic has been published in – among other places – the Journal of Consumer Research, European Journal of Marketing, Journal of Business Ethics, Marketing Theory and Organization. He has collaborated through action research programmes with companies such as Alfa Romeo, Citroën, Ducati and Macif.

Daniele Dalli is Professor of Marketing at the University of Pisa. His field is consumer research and he has published in – among other journals – the International Journal of Research in Marketing, Marketing Theory, Journal of Business Ethics, Managing Service Quality and Management Decision.

Anisha Datta is an Associate Professor of Sociology at King’s University College at Western University, Canada. Her research interests include consumer culture, neoliberalism, social theory, political economy, social inequality, comparative sociology, South Asia – India, and Global Studies. Some of her published essays are – The ‘Other’ in Sociological Canons: Reading the Trinity through Critical Post-Colonial Lens (2012), Fair’s Unfair: Simulations of Consumption and Career in Indian Advertising (2008) and Modernity, Gender and Political Allegory in ‘Third World’ Literature: The Case of Streer Patra (2007).

Janice Denegri-Knott is Associate Editor of Marketing Theory and Director of the Centre of Promotional Cultures and Communication at the Faculty of Media and Communication at Bournemouth University, England. Her research interests span from conceptualising and documenting digital virtual consumption and its practices, the emergence of media technology, the socio-historic patterning of consumption and more generally the subject of power in consumer and marketing research. She has published extensively on what stimulates consumers’ desire to acquire digital virtual goods and how consumers’ come to assign value to their digital virtual possessions. She has done consultancy work for a range of media companies, such as The Daily Telegraph, ITV and Channel 4.

Sophie Dubuisson-Quellier is Research Professor at Sciences Po and CNRS, and deputy director of the Center for the Sociology of Organizations in Paris, France. Her research is situated in the field of economic sociology, and her focus is on the social construction of consumers and markets. Her aim is to understand how consumers’ economic behaviour is progressively shaped by the relationship between corporations’ practice, government, and social movements. She recently published Ethical Consumption (Fernwood Publishing, 2013) and Gouverner les Conduites (Presses de Sciences Po, 2016). Her work has appeared in several academic journals, such as Organization Studies, Journal of Consumer Culture, Sociologia Ruralis and International Journal of Consumer Studies.

Ben Fine is Professor of Economics at the School of Oriental and African Studies, University of London, holding honorary positions at the University of Johannesburg and the Institute for Social and Economic Research, Rhodes University. Recent books include From Political Economy to Economics: Method, the Social and the Historical in the Evolution of Economic Theory (awarded the 2009 Gunnar Myrdal Prize) and From Economics Imperialism to Freakonomics: The Shifting Boundaries Between Economics and Other Social Sciences (awarded the 2009 Deutscher Prize), both with Dimitris Milonakis, 2009; Marx’s Capital, with Alfredo Saad-Filho (6th edition, 2016), and Theories of Social Capital: Researchers Behaving Badly (2010). He is Chair of the International Initiative for Promoting Political Economy, IIPPE, and is a member of the Social Science Research Committee of the UK’s Food Standards Agency.

Eileen Fischer is a Professor of Marketing and the Max and Anne Tanenbaum Chair of Entrepreneurship and Family Enterprise at the Schulich School of Business at York University. She studies how consumers and entrepreneurs navigate markets as they strive to achieve their goals, and how their actions affect both firm- and market-level dynamics. Her work has been published in Journal of Consumer Research, Journal of Retailing, Journal of Business Venturing, Journal of International Business, Entrepreneurship: Theory and Practice, Consumption Markets & Culture, Research Policy and a range of other outlets.

Güliz Ger is Professor of Marketing and Director of the Center for Research in Transitional Societies at Bilkent University. She has also taught as a visiting professor in numerous universities around the world. She serves as an Associate Editor for